

BookI

Read your PDFs with someone to talk to.

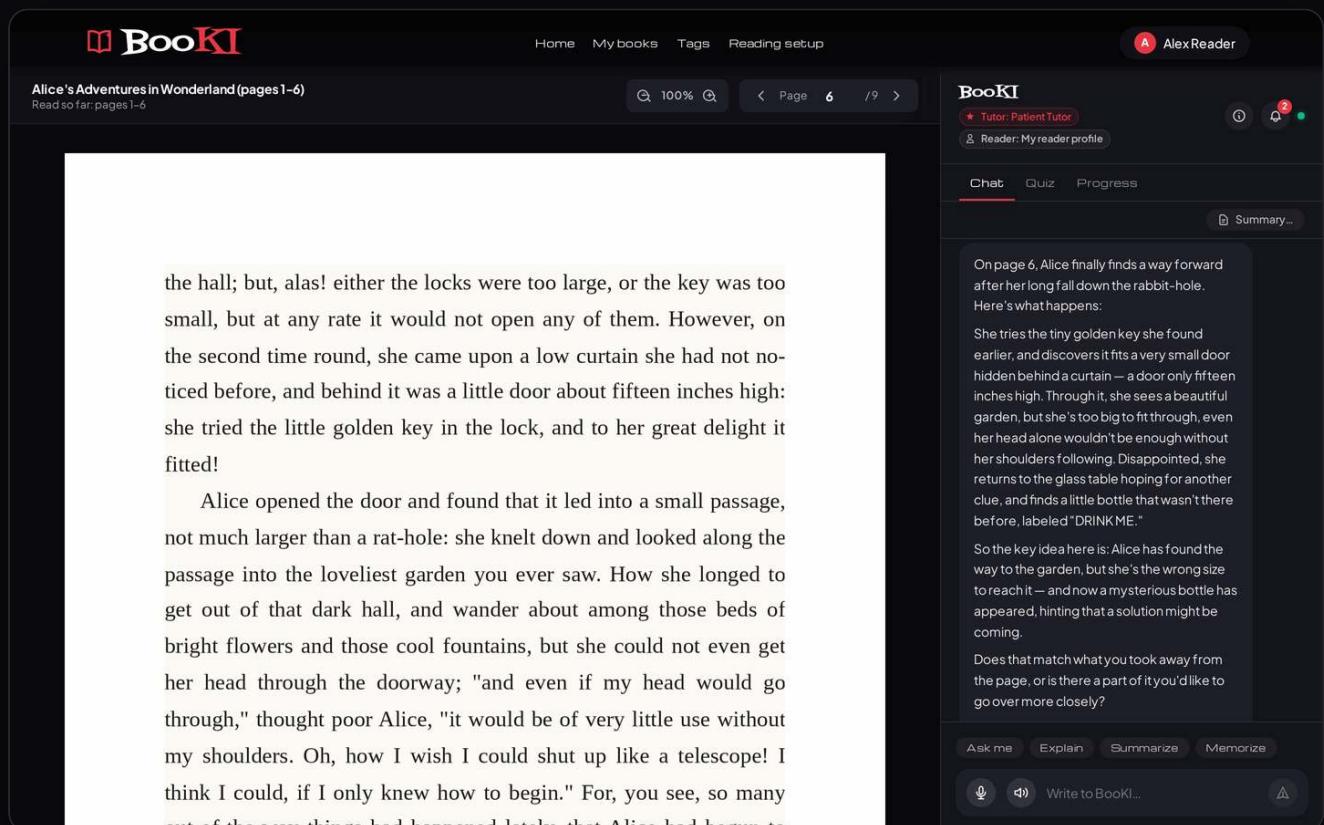

A quick guide — what BookI does, and how to use it in four steps.

A reading companion that knows your page.

Open a PDF — a textbook, a paper, a novel, your own notes — and read at your own pace. Whenever you want, ask BookI a question by text or voice. It answers using the pages around where you are.

- Ask anything about the page you're on, and get an answer grounded in what you're actually reading.
- Quiz yourself on the pages you've already covered — answers are marked with a score and specific feedback.
- Get summaries and plain-language explanations without ever leaving the reader.
- Nothing is gated. BookI travels along with you; it doesn't turn the book into homework.

STEP ONE

Add a book.

On the home screen, tap Upload PDF and pick any PDF. It joins your library, sorted into Recently added, your own tags, and Long reads. Search by title to jump back in later.

Start a session.

Click a book to open Create session. A session is one open-ended reading journey with its own memory of how far you've read.

Read, and ask.

The PDF is on the left, the conversation on the right. Move through the pages as you like — BookI records the furthest one you reach.

- Ask about "this page" and BookI answers from the pages around you.
- Name a page range and it uses that instead.
- Use the quick actions — Ask me, Explain, Summarize, Memorize — for one-tap requests.

 A question and BookI's contextual answer

Talk to it, or type.

Tap the microphone and speak your question. BookI transcribes it, answers in the same conversation, and can read the answer back aloud — or keep it text-only with the speaker toggle. Voice and text share one history: it's the same conversation either way.

the hall; but, alas! either the locks were too large, or the key was too small, but at any rate it would not open any of them. However, on the second time round, she came upon a low curtain she had not noticed before, and behind it was a little door about fifteen inches high: she tried the little golden key in the lock, and to her great delight it fitted!

Alice opened the door and found that it led into a small passage.

Check yourself.

On the Quiz tab, pick a page range you've read and BookI writes a short quiz.

Answer in your own words — each answer comes back with a percentage score and a specific note on what to add, not just right or wrong.

Based on this page, who is the author of "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland"?
According to the title page, the book is "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland" and its author is Lewis Carroll.
✓ 100% — Correct — Lewis Carroll is clearly identified as the author on the title page.

What was it about the White Rabbit that made Alice jump up and chase after it, rather than just thinking it a bit odd like she did with the Rabbit talking to itself?
waistcoat-pocket and a watch was so impossible that Alice, burning with curiosity, jumped up and ran after it.
✓ 100% — You correctly identified that the watch and waistcoat-pocket were what made it impossibly strange, sparking her curiosity to chase it.

PAGE 3
What detail about the fall makes Alice think it might be taking unusually long, and how does she use this to guess something specific about her location?

Catch up in a paragraph.

Ask for a summary of a range of pages — it combines the book's text with your discussion so far. The result lands in the chat, or you can download it as a PDF. Tap Explain on a passage you didn't follow and BookI unpacks it in plain language, right where you are.

The screenshot displays the BookI app interface. At the top, the BookI logo is on the left, and navigation links (Home, My books, Tags, Reading setup) are in the center. A user profile icon labeled 'Alex Reader' is on the right. Below the navigation bar, the book title 'Alice's Adventures in Wonderland (pages 1-6)' is shown, along with a search icon, '100%' zoom, and page navigation ('< Page 6 / 9 >'). The main content area shows a text passage from the book, with a yellow highlight on a paragraph. To the right, a sidebar titled 'Summarize this session' is visible. It contains a description of the summary, an optional text input field with a placeholder 'e.g. Focus on the characters' motivations, and keep it kid-friendly.', a length slider set to 'about 2 pages', and two input fields for 'Summarize from page' (1) and 'Through page' (6). Below these are checkboxes for 'Available pages read so far: 1-6.' and 'Include the book's cover art'. At the bottom of the sidebar, there are buttons for 'Message in chat', 'Download PDF', 'Cancel', and 'Generate'.

Alice opened the door and found that it led into a small passage, not much larger than a rat-hole: she knelt down and looked along the passage into the loveliest garden you ever saw. How she longed to get out of that dark hall, and wander about among those beds of bright flowers and those cool fountains, but she could not even get her head through the doorway; "and even if my head would go through," thought poor Alice, "it would be of very little use without my shoulders. Oh, how I wish I could shut up like a telescope! I think I could, if I only knew how to begin." For, you see, so many out-of-the-way things had happened lately, that Alice had begun to

In Reading setup, a tutor profile is the full set of instructions a session runs on — its persona, what each difficulty level means, and how it handles quizzes, summaries and explanations. A reader profile describes who's reading — their level, goal and subject. Keep a different one per subject you study.

Every session also has a Progress tab: pages read, questions asked, quiz scores, and a report you can email or download.

The screenshot displays the BookKI web application interface. The top navigation bar includes links for Home, My books, Tags, and Reading setup. The user is logged in as AlexReader. The main content area shows the text of 'Alice's Adventures in Wonderland' (pages 1-8), with the current page being 3 of 9. The text is displayed in a large, readable font. On the right side, there is a sidebar with the BookKI logo and a 'Tutor: Patient Tutor' profile. Below this, there are tabs for Chat, Quiz, and Progress. The Progress tab is active, showing a reading progress bar at 89%. It also displays statistics: 8/9 Pages read, 2 Messages exchanged, 3 Quizzes taken, and a 77% Quiz average score. At the bottom of the sidebar, there is a section titled 'EMAIL THIS PROGRESS REPORT' with a text input field containing 'parent@email.com' and a 'Send' button.

In another moment down went Alice after it, never once considering how in the world she was to get out again.

The rabbit-hole went straight on like a tunnel for some way, and then dipped suddenly down, so suddenly that Alice had not a moment to think about stopping herself before she found herself falling down a very deep well.

Either the well was very deep, or she fell very slowly, for she had plenty of time as she went down to look about her and to wonder what was going to happen next. First, she tried to look down and make out what she was coming to, but it was too dark to see anything; then she looked at the sides of the well, and noticed that they were filled with cupboards and book-shelves; here and there she saw maps and pictures hung upon pegs. She took down a jar from one of the shelves as she passed; it was labelled "ORANGE MARMALADE," but to her great disappointment it was empty: she did not like to drop the jar for fear of killing somebody underneath
